

It's not too creepy if you're nostalgically interested in entertainment history. On your next visit to the Los Angeles area, spend an hour or two visiting the last resting places of some of the famed people from your earlier years. Among several celebrity cemeteries in the Los Angeles area is the branch of Forest Lawn in the Hollywood Hills above the city.

It's near Disney, Universal and Warner Brothers Studios. Among graves in the Memorial Park, seek out those where you can pause and remember. They include Debbie Reynolds, Carrie Fisher, Bette Davis, Lucille Ball, Telly Savalas, Buster Keaton, Dorothy Lamour, Liberace, Freddie Prinze, Jack Webb, Stan Laurel, Ricky Nelson, Gene Autry and Sandra Dee. One of several tour companies that offer daily visits to the cemetery is hollywoodcitytours.com.