

For many reasons, including personal danger to American travelers, don't plan to visit Libya, Chad, Iran, Somalia, Syria, Venezuela, Yemen and North Korea. There's no info about when the restrictions will be lifted on any of the countries listed.

There's a rumor that after President Trump issued the orders, dozens of angry NFL football jocks immediately got off their knees and signed up to visit all nine countries. OK, just a lame joke, but senior travelers, except for almost 60-year-old Dennis Rodman, are urged to take the restrictions very seriously.
