

Bring your stash aboard in a carry-on bag, but understand that no one is allowed to vape or light up during the flight. However, if you've smoked enough before boarding, the high-flying journey will be a dreamy one.

Always be aware that while pot is legal in California, it isn't in some other states and countries. So, if your destination airport has anti-marijuana laws, be prepared for how the restrictions will affect you after landing and/or when boarding a connecting flight.
