

As the world gets more dangerous, American wanderers are officially banned from venturing to potentially dangerous destinations. The most recent list includes Iran, Libya, Somalia, Syria and Yemen, Venezuela and North Korea.

If you're considering making plans for this year, before you commit to reservations that involve ground and air travel into or through forbidden countries, be sure they're not officially banned to U.S. citizens. apnews.com/753968e412fab06e6fb8180e7ac98d47
