

Every traveler is a photographer these days. You see the little boxes pointed during concerts, festivals, parades, scenic spots and everywhere else. What you don't see is that many of the smartphones suddenly disappear.

For examples, she dropped her phone into the water while leaning over the railing to snap pix as the ship entered port. He was in the city pointing his Smartphone at a parade when a thief suddenly grabbed it and ran away. For the best way to prevent losing it, get a fitted Smartphone case with a strap to keep wrapped around your wrist while shooting.
