

One of the island's most popular tourist activities is riding the little burros through the beautiful scenery. However, fat visitors have been too much of a burden for the fragile animals. Now if visitors weigh 220 pounds or more, they'll have to walk. Santorini citizens are determined to save their asses.