

If warm weather travels take you to the French capital city this season, and you enjoy the famous boulevard, check your calendar. On one Sunday a month, the usually busy road will be vehicle-free and open only to foot traffic. Along with happy walkers, there will be food stations, acrobats, jugglers, singers, dancers and musicians. And, of course, the Arc de Triomphe.