

Your travel4seniors.com editor enjoys a comfy nap while aboard United Airlines' inaugural non-stop journey from SFO to SIN. The flight, which may be the longest non-stop flown by a U.S. airline so far, covered 8,446 miles and took nearly 16 hours.